

The Joule-Thomson effect

I have tracked a change of the temperature of carbon dioxide during its flow through a low-permeable septum under different initial values of pressure and temperature. Also, I have calculated the Van der Waals' coefficient on the results of the experiments.