

The study of the scattering of slow electrons by atoms (Ramsauer effect)

I have investigated a dependence of the probability of scattering of the electrons by xenon atoms on their energy. The energy of the electrons in which the xenon is in the scattering state was found. In addition, I have estimated the size of the outer electron's shells.